remain in Richmond for several weeks.

Brilliant Rectfal.

One of the rare treats of the musical season in Richmond was the concert for the benefit of the Baptist Home for Aged Women, which took place on Monday evening. Mrs. Hamilton Smith's heautiful contraite voice is a great addition to musical circles here, and her voice in tone, quality and sympathetic interpretation makes her an artist of marked ability. She sang with a fine effect the last lament of Sappho, "Ma Lyre Immortelle," ere she easts herself from the rock. Joseph of unusual sweetness and purity of tone, and his singing was quite the feature of the splendid program rendered at the concert Monday night. He rendered exquisitely the tovely aria, "Celeste Aida," and his encore. "Genevieve, Sweet Genevieve," was greeted with a storm of applause. Mr. Whittemore is a brilliant and inlented.

Refterates Determination to Enter Campaign for Congressional Nomination in Ninth.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Washington, May 5.—John C. Noel, of Lee County, Va., when seen in Congressman Slemps office at the Capitol to-day reiterated his statement made in Richmond last Saturday, that he accepted as final the declaration made by Slemp that he will not again be a candidate for Congress and that he, Noel, will make a campaign to succeed him.

"I feel sure that Slemp will not again be a candidate," said Noel in the presence of Mr. Slemp. "Therefore, I hope the convention, which meets in Bristol on July 9, will name me as his successor. I feel confident that whoever the Republican hominee may be, he will be elected, so I am roing out to gain the nomination and coing out to gain the nomination, and expect to win.

"I have campaigned against Irvine, Thave campaigned against irvine, the Democratic nominee, before, and heat him, and believe I can beat him again. In 1903 I defeated him for the Virginia Senate and feel sure I can defeat him this fall if I can secure the nomination

"Well, Mr. Slemp, you heard that; what do you think of it?" asked The Times-Dispatch correspondent. "I guess he's right," was Slemp's reply.

"May we accept your previous statement that you will not be a candidate again, as still standing good?" was I have made the statement that I will not run again so often that it is unnecessary for me to make it again."
"Well, have you and Noel fixed it up so that you will retire in his favor?"

was suggested. "It's hardly a frame-up, but I am out of the race, and Noel says he is a candidate, that's plain," replied Slemp.

Nevertheless it is still generally believed here that the Republican convention at Bristol will nominate Slemp
